CHAPTER CI.

An ACT to ascertain the boundary lines of a tract of land in York county, called "Solitude."

WHEREAS, it hath been represented to the legislature, by the petition of sundry inhabitants of York county, that a tract of land called Solitude, situate in Lower Chanceford Township, in the county aforesaid, hath been surveyed and patented agreeably to the laws of the state (formerly the province of Maryland) before the boundary line of this state and that of Maryland was finally ascertained: And whereas, none of the lines of the said tract are marked, or any corner fully known except the beginning or bounding corner, and a law is prayed for to ascertain the same, which appears just and right: Therefore,

SECT. 1. BE it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the surveyor general of this commonwealth be authorized, and he is hereby required, on the application of any person, and at the proper charges and expense of the holders of lands within the tract of land called Solitude, situate in the county of York, to issue his order to the deputy surveyor of the said county, to survey the same, and ascertain the number of acres therein contained, over and above the quantity mentioned in the original patent, and make return thereof into the surveyor general's office, and the surveyor general shall certify the same to the secretary of the land office, and upon the payment of the customary price of lands of the date of the said patent, with interest for the said surplus; it shall be deemed and taken to be in full of all claim and demand of this commonwealth, of, in and to the land contained within the said lines, as fully and completely as if patents had issued for the same, and the said holders of the said lands respectively, shall hold the same agreeably to their respective surveys, without any further demand whatsoever of or from this commonwealth, according to their respective deeds; and the said lines, marked and known as aforesaid, shall forever be the boundary of the said tract of land called Solitude, any variance in the boundary hereby established, from any former survey or reputed boundary of the said tract of land, notwithstanding:

Solitude tract of land to be surveyed.

Duty of the surveyor general.

Of land holders.

Provided, That nothing in this act contained, shall, in anywise, ^{Provide} injure or impair the title of any person to the land contained within the said limits or any part thereof.
