and St. Paul's Episcopal churches in the city of Philadelphia," &c.,<sup>1</sup> passed in the fifth year of His present Majesty's reign, that the time limited for the drawing of the said lottery is too short, and that unless the same shall be prolonged and a further day given for that purpose the pious designs of the legislature of erecting and finishing the several Episcopal churches in the said act mentioned will be in a great measure defeated:

[Section I.] Wherefore be it enacted by the Honorable John Penn, Esquire, Lieutenant-Governor under the Honorable Thomas Penn and Richard Penn, Esquires, true and absolute Proprietaries of the Province of Pennsylvania and counties of Newcastle, Kent and Sussex upon Delaware, by and with the advice and consent of the representatives of the freemen of the said Province in General Assembly met, and by the authority of the same, That a further day shall be and is hereby given to the said managers for the drawing of the said lottery; and that it shall and may be lawful for them, or a majority of them, to postpone and prolong the drawing of the same for and during any space of time not exceeding nine months, provided the said lottery shall be drawn on or before the expiration of that time.

And whereas Henry Harrison, Esquire, one of the managers of the said lottery, is lately deceased, and it is convenient that some other person be appointed in his stead:

[Section II.] Be it therefore further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That Daniel Rundle shall be and is hereby appointed one of the managers of the said lottery, and shall have full power and authority to transact, do and perform all and every act, matter and thing enjoined and required to be done and performed in and by the said act of general assembly in as full and ample a manner as the said Henry Harrison could, ought or might do, had he continued in full life, having first taken the qualification enjoined and required by the said law to be taken by the managers of the said lottery.
